MCKINLEY AND WILSON ABROAD.

In 1890 William McKinley was burned in effipy in the English manufacturing city of Sheffield; but in 1894 William L. Wilson was dined and winced in London because he is the author of a Free-trade Tariff Bill. These are significant facts.

A WASHINGTON special to the Com-mercial Gazette gives some figures that are quite interesting. President CLEVE-LAND has been in office for nearly twenty-one months and Facts. and, as if to verify Republican predic-tions, his Administration has already increased the public debt by $100,000,000, at an interest charge of $2,989,000 a year, or a total in the ten years that the bonds have to run of $29,890,000. With a little more than twenty-seven months remaining of his Administration, people may well ask what will be the total addition to the bonded debt that will mark President CLEVELAND'S second Administration.

On March 1st, 1893, three days befor President HARRISON went out of office the Treasury statement for the month ending February 28th, showed the aggregate debt, including certificates and Treasury notes, to be $1,565,110,098 63.

On January 31st, one month before, it had been $1,571,301,615 63. Thus there have the contract of the statement of the stat had been a decrease during February, HARRISON'S last month in office, of $6,-192,117. The cash balance on March 1st was $124,128,087 88, of which $100,000,-000 was the gold reserve and $24,128, 087 88 the net cash balance. This was when President CLEVELAND and Secretary CARLISLE took charge of them.

What is their condition now? The what is their condition now? The Treasury statement for the month ending October 31st, 1894, showed the aggregate debt, including certificates and Treasury netes, to be $1,525,154, 037 68. On September 30th, one month before, it had been $1,530,002,806 68, a degreened during October, $2,826,756, $3,946,766, $3,946,766, $3,946,766, $3,946,766, $3,946,766, $3,946,76 se during October of $3,848,769 But the debt proper had increased $1,101,-280, while the apparent decrease had been in the amount of certificates and Treasury notes offset by cash in the Treasury. The cash balance on Novem-ber 1st was $107,340,145 80, a decrease during October of $12,579,573 58. Of this balance only $61,361,826 was in the gold reserve fund, which, ever since JOHN SHERMAN was Secretary, it had been the invariable rule, until this Adminis-tration, to maintain at the $100,000,000 mark, while the net cash balance amounted to $45,978,319 80.

A comparison between the condition of the Treasury on March 1st, 1893, after our years of Harrison's Administra-ion, and on November 1st, 1894, after wenty months of CLEVELAND'S Adminisweany monuses of LAPALANO S Administration, shows this: The interest-bearing debt has increased from $855,034,900 to $850,034,900 to $850,034, balance has fallen from $124,128,087 88 ct $107,340,145 80, a loss of $16,787,842 68, and the gold reserve, notwithstanding the issue of $50,000,000 in bonds to repleash it in Pebruary last, has shrunk from $100,000,000 to $61,361,826, a decrease of $38,083,174. Since November 141 it has fallen to, in round numbers, $87,000,000.

up to November 1st. On Monday, Secretary Carlisle sold $50,000,000 more bonds, which sends the total increase in the public debt, in less than twenty-one months, up to $111,043,939 05. During President HARRISON'S Administration resident HARRISON'S Administration the interest-bearing debt was reduced $233,588,950, and there was saved in interest $55,332,409 51. To whatever satisfaction there is in this contrast, those who voted enthusiastically for a change in 1892 are certainly entitled.

Another contrast between Republican and Democratic financiering, as presented by President CLEVELAND'S first Administration and the succeeding Administration of General Harrison, has its interest and its lessons. When Mr. CLEVELAND went into office, March 4th, 1885, the available cash balance in the Treasury was $159,356,503 41. Not un-til virtually forced to do so by the passage of a resolution by a Democratic House of Representatives, did he pay off any of the bonded indebtedness, and then only $143,884,350, on which he saved $32,8°2,538 38 interest. He did, how-ever, increase the available cash balance from $159,°56,506 41 to $183,827,190 29, at which figure it stood when General HARRISON took hold of affairs on March 4th, 1889. General HARRISON did reduce this balance by March 1st, 1893, to $124,128,087 88, but in the meantime he had paid off $89,704,000 more of the debt than had Mr CLEVELAND, and saved $22, 519,955 13 more in interest.

KENTUCKY COUPLE.

They Slip Away and Are Married in Cincinnati.

The spice of romance entered into the nuprisis of Mr. Henry H. Ponge, several times the Sheriff of Bracken county, and Mas Neppie See, whose paternal dominic is in Brockville, the delightful capital of Bracken, and the home of beauty and of hospitality.

The ordinary suitor might have some difficulty with locksmiths, but a Kentucky Sheriff—never.

They loved mutually: still the hindrance of old folks at home would subdue their pulpitating hearts.

drance of oid folks at home would suones.

But the harder the hindrance the harder was the harder the plajitation, so away they journeyed across the 0-hi-to and to the hospitable welcome of the Queen City, in the company of attending friends.

The knot was tied at the Parnonage of St. Paul's M. E. Church by Rev. J. M. Masker.

The indications are that Frankfort's streetcar lines are permanently tied up. They shut down Thanksgiving Day, and no cars have been run since then, the sileged excuse being an accident to some important suppliance at the company's power-house. The managers of the road now reticently shufflit that the secret of the trouble is adhagreement between the local and foreign stockholders, and there is doubt in the minds of some whether the lines will resume again. The road has been losing heavily of late, and the local stockholders claim that the foreign stockholders from the stockholders for the foreign stockholders from the size. The road was built at a cost of about $70,000, and has been in operation only about a year.
